DEAD, 42 HURT AS NEW BLASTS RIP OIL PLANT

CAR $12,000,000 SINCLAIR OIL
REFINERY MAY BE TOTALLY DESTROYED

FIREFMEN FIGHT BLAZING OIL

By Flying Storage Tank
Lick; Damage Runs Into Millions
As Blaze Spreads

WELLSVILLE, N. Y., July 18.—(UP)—A new explosion ripped through the blazing $12,000,000 Sinclair Oil Company Refinery today and was feared that the entire plant might be destroyed. Four men already had been killed, 42 injured, and the damage early today was estimated at several million dollars.

During the night one storage tank after another had exploded, sending great columns of flame and billowing white smoke high into the sky. At 11 a. m. (EST) after 10 tanks had exploded, firemen thought they had the fire under control, but a little before dawn, another tank went up with a roaring intonation that shook the countryside for miles around, scattering flames through parts of the huge refinery which hadn't been touched.

Refinery workers, Wellsville firemen, and volunteer firemen from neighboring towns were all seeking to control the blaze but water was almost useless in combating the blazing crude oil. The firemen and hundreds of spectators were endangered by the recurring explosions.

Two men were killed when sprayed with burning oil. They were Eugene McCormick, 42, and Walter Maeder, 55. The top of an oil storage tank 30 feet in diameter was blown high by an explosion and came down across the refinery, which runs alongside the river, on Robert Powers, 38, and an unidentified man, killing them. To recover the unidentified man, police had to cut through the steel with torches.

Others were either burned by the oil or overpowered by the billowing clouds of noxious smoke. A fire started in the wax processing plant and spread rapidly to storage tanks. At 3 a. m. 10 of these tanks had been destroyed and firemen hoped that the others would be saved. The refinery is the largest producing Pennsylvania crude and preliminary estimates placed the probable damage at $15,000,000.

Chinese In Court Here

Five Countrymen
Answer To RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE

When H. S. Loh appeared before Justice of the Peace Robert H. Nevin, Sunday morning, to answer to a charge of reckless driving, he had a guard of honor of five Chinese men, he himself being of that racial race. The guard of honor merely lent young Loh their moral support, as no force of arms was attempted to free him from the clutches of the law, nor was any desire evident. All are students at Purdue University, it was understood. Loh was brought into court by State Prosecutor Max Webb, after a long Saturday afternoon and night in the Putnam county hospital, where he had been treated soon after noon Saturday, for a deep and long gash on the side of his head, caused by a collision of the car Loh was driving with another vehicle at the intersection of roads 43 and 26, north of this city.

Loh was the driver of the car that caused the trouble and he was the worst sufferer from it. The others with him were but little hurt. An ambulance brought Loh and one other to the hospital but Loh was the only one of the two who was treated. The remaining four brought the car to this city, under its own power. All six of them were in the court room of the Justice of the Peace, and all were in good humor, thankful, apparently, that they were not in worse shape. Loh explained to the Justice of the Peace that the brakes on the car he was driving would not hold. He was on road 43 and did not stop for the intersection with road 36, the latter being preferential.

EARTH SHOCK FELT IN FRANCE

GRENOBLE, France, July 18 (UP)—A sharp three-second earth shock was felt in the French Alps early today. Ceilings of several houses collapsed but damage was slight and casualties were reported. The zone where the shock was felt is that in which President Albert Lebrun is expected soon on his vacation.

GUNS MOUNTED ON DECKS

LONDON, July 18 (UP)—The Daily Herald asserted today that decks of British liners using the Mediterranean route were being strengthened so that guns could be mounted on them for use in a Mediterranean war. It was added that the guns were not designed to meet Spanish Nationalist attacks.

May Ask Special Session To Allot $2,500,000 Program

PURDUE, BALL STATE, INDIANA
STATE, INDIANA MAY GET MONEY

WOULD MATCH FEDERAL FUNDS

Building Program To Be Approved
Will Amount to More Than $11-
000,000, Estimates Reveal

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 18.—(UP)—Gov. M. Clifford Townsend said today that the special Legislature convening tomorrow may be asked to appropriate funds for a $2,500,000 building program at the four state colleges.

The state budget committee has under consideration the requests of Indiana University, Purdue University, Ball State Teachers college and Indiana State college, for building funds and was to report to the governor later today.

Townsend said that the building would be financed by 30 percent state funds, 45 percent PWA funds and 25 percent through some sort of carrying charge.

The school program would include auditoriums at Indiana and Purdue, a dormitory and swimming pool at Ball State, Muncie, and an auditorium at Indiana State, Terre Haute. The building program to be approved by the special session will amount to more than $11,000,000, including improvements and additions at the state fairgrounds, various mental hospitals and penal institutions, and construction of a new tuberculosis hospital in southern Indiana.

Meanwhile, party leaders were busy getting the Democratic legislators in line to pass the three administration measures to come before the session and adjourn as quickly as possible.

Democratic senators were scheduled to caucus tonight to name a speaker pro tempore to succeed Thurman A. Gottschalk, who resigned from the Senate to become state welfare director.

Two men were in the race for speaker pro tem, Sen. E. Curtis White of Indianapolis, president of the state board of agriculture, and caucus chairman during the 1937 session, and Sen. Frederick E. Eichhorn of Gary.

Democratic leaders expressed confidence that the special session would limit itself to consideration of the three administration measures despite attempts by Republican members to introduce a nine-point "reform" program.

In addition to the building program, the legislators will be asked to allocate $2,000,000 from the general fund to help counties bear the cost of poor-relief and to amend the windshield "gadget" law, which has been attacked by many fronts since its enactment by the 1937 regular session.

Welfare leaders, busily engaged in working out an equitable system of dividing the poor-relief air funds, advised (Continued on Page Four)

The Stand Pipe Springs A Leak

WAS BEING DRAINED AND CLEANED PREPARATORY TO BEING REPAIRED

The Greencastle water stand pipe sprung a leak recently and Monday was being drained preparatory to being cleaned and repairs made. The leak is in the bottom plate of the reservoir and until it was drained and cleaned, the extent of the leak could not be determined.

In the meantime, the water pressure in the city is being maintained by direct pressure from the pumps at the pumping station and there will be no lack of water or pressure during the time repairs are being made.

FDR FISHING; GEORGIA MAY BE TRUCE END

SENATOR W. F. GEORGE, NEW DEAL CRITIC, MAY GET POLITICAL AXE

ADVANCE 3D TERM IDEAS

President Has Gone "Easy" With
Foes to Present; Retains Political Poker-Face

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(UP)—President Roosevelt's pre-primary swing around the circle, seized upon by some observers as evidence that he may be thinking of a third term, was interrupted today by the calm of a fishing interlude.

But this fishing truce may end with a political explosion when Mr. Roosevelt returns to the United States for an invasion of the home state of Sen. Walter F. George, D., Ga., who is believed to be listed in the new deal black book.

Third term speculation came generally from quarters unfriendly to the administration and none was in a position to state the President's plans. But observers were agreed that a battle is underway for control of the Democratic party with Mr. Roosevelt acting as field commander of new deal troops.

The consensus was that he would find his first real opportunity for a political purge in Georgia, where he probably will renew the political wars after disembarking from the cruiser Houston at Pensacola, Fla. The westward journey was notable more for varying degrees of endorsement for congressional candidates seeking renomination than for any effort to prevent the renomination of what new dealers term the "Yes, but" men.

George not only opposed judiciary and government reorganization bills, but has been critical of other new deal measures. Sen. Ellison D. Smith, S. C., voted for the government reorganization bill but is rated by new dealers among the backsliders. Sen. Millard E. Tydings, D., Md., so often opposed the new deal in the 75th and previous sessions of Congress that many of Mr. Roosevelt's advisers who oppose purge action in other states appear to be willing to give Tydings the works if opportunity offers.

In those three senatorial contests and a few House contests the real purge will take place—if it takes place at all. Rep. John J. O'Connor, D., N. Y., who balked at the "death sentence" bill for public utilities and other pet Roosevelt policies, is reported to be on the political spot as is Rep. Howard W. Smith, D., Va., who, as a fellow member with O'Connor on the rules committee, did what he could to stymie the wages and hours bill.

A political situation, more properly reflecting a "purge" movement than most, suddenly shifted while Mr. Roosevelt was en route westward. Indiana Democratic leaders decided that their plan to read Sen. Frederick Van Nuys out of the party would do more harm than good, especially to the 1940 presidential aspirations of former Gov. Paul V. McNutt. So Van Nuys was invited to seek party endorsement and he got it.

Charles Michelson, Democratic national committee publicist, marked Mr. Roosevelt's embarkation in California with a sharp objection to interpretations placed upon his political situation.

Rites Held For Mrs. Mary Palm

DIED FRIDAY AT HOME OF SON
AFTER EXTENDED ILLNESS

Mrs. Mary E. Palm, widow of Charles L. Palm, died Friday night at the home of her son, William Foreman, on the east Pinckney street road in Putnam county, of complications at the age of 69 years. Death followed an illness of three years, the past two weeks of which confined her to her bed.

Mrs. Palm was born in eastern Clay county, a daughter of Oliver B. and Matilda Johnson, who were early residents of the community.

Mrs. Palm is survived by two sons, William Foreman, of Putnam county, and Stanley Palm, of Brazil, also five grandchildren, two brothers and a sister, William Johnson, of Brazil, and Henry Johnson, of Terre Haute, and Mrs. Alma Dodson of Brazil and a number of nieces and nephews.

The funeral services were held Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of William Foreman. Interment was in the McCullough cemetery.

New Orleans CIO Strike Is Quelled

MONTH OF VIOLENCE, RAIDS
ENDED WITH TERMINATION OF STRIKE

NEW ORLEANS, July 18.—(UP)—The Committee for Industrial Organization today abandoned its truck drivers strike that had resulted in a month of violence, mass arrests and police raids on C. I. O. halls.

Paul Heide, C. I. O. organizer, said the United Transport Workers had voted unanimously to "terminate their strike action and return to work, to consolidate the union on the job and prepare for the hearing by the National Labor Relations board." Officials of companies against which the strike was directed made no comment on whether they would renege the 800 strikers. The companies operated their trucks with American Federation of Labor drivers during the strike and federation spokesmen claimed they had contracts.

Three men were shot during the strike and many others complained that they had been kidnapped and assaulted. C. I. O. attorneys have appealed in vain to federal courts for an injunction against wholesale arrests of its members by police.

Headquarters of the C. I. O. maritime workers union was raided and scores of men were taken to jail, although the union was not involved directly in the strike.

The labor board is to meet next Monday and decide whether to call a collective bargaining election among transfer company employees. A strike of C. I. O. taxicab drivers, which began soon after that of the truck drivers, was called off Thursday.

LANE, TREADWAY REPRESENT PUTNAM AT SPECIAL SESSION

Putnam county is being represented in the special session of the Indiana Legislature, assembling tomorrow, by O. Bruce Lane, joint senator from Putnam and Montgomery counties, and by William E. Treadway, joint representative from Putnam and Owen counties.

These two members of the legislative body served in the last regular session, that of 1937, and hold over until January 1, 1939, when they will be succeeded by men elected in the coming November election.

Mr. Treadway was candidate for the Democratic nomination for judge of the Owen county circuit court but his opponent won the nomination.

Begin Hearings In TVA Probe

DR. A. E. MORGAN, OUSTED TVA
HEAD, DEMANDING RE-INSTATEMENT

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 18.—(UP)—A congressional committee began open hearings today into the dispute among the three directors of the Tennessee Valley Authority which caused President Roosevelt to oust the chairman, Dr. A. E. Morgan, for "contumacy."

The investigation was concerned with all administrative and policy matters of the gigantic federal power and flood control project. But Francis Biddle, chief counsel for the committee, said: "We want to get the personal charges out of the way first."

Dr. Morgan and his former colleagues, H. A. Morgan and David E. Lilienthal, will be called immediately. The order of their appearance had not been decided but it was believed that H. A. Morgan, who succeeded Dr. Morgan as chairman, would be called first to make a brief statement of TVA affairs, and that Dr. Morgan would testify.

Dr. Morgan had been advised that he would be expected to present documentary evidence of the charges he made against his two co-directors. He had refused to reveal such evidence to Mr. Roosevelt even when the President summoned him to the White House and demanded it point-blank. Dr. Morgan had accused his co-directors of conducting a campaign of "deceit and misrepresentation."

Dr. Morgan filed a suit in Chancery court here July 6 challenging President Roosevelt's authority to fire him and demanding reinstatement as TVA chairman with back pay.

The congressional committee, headed by Sen. Vic Donahey, D., O., chairman, had given Dr. Morgan access to TVA records to prepare himself to testify.

LONE AVIATOR SPANS OCEAN IN MONOPLANE

DOUGLAS CORRIGAN LANDS IN IRELAND AFTER TRIP
"TO CALIFORNIA"

USES NINE-YEAR-OLD PLANE

Navigates Singled-Handed Perilous
Flight Without Instruments;
Rivals Lindbergh

BULLETIN

DUBLIN, July 18.—(UP)—Douglas Corrigan, a fervent admirer of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh flew alone from New York to Ireland today in a little nine-year-old monoplane with a single 175 horsepower motor.

Crossing the same ocean over which Howard Hughes thundered with 2,000 horsepower last week, the Los Angeles pilot set his old ship down on Baldonell airport at 2:30 p. m. (7:30 a. m. CST).

He had left Floyd Bennett airport in New York at 3:17 a. m. CST, Sunday, assuring attendants that he was "just going to fly back home to California."

Corrigan flew without radio, without navigating instruments, and without permission of the U. S. government or the airport from which he cleared.

Corrigan maintained that all the time he thought he was flying to California instead of Ireland.

That was the story that he stuck to when he put the old crate down at Baldonell airport, just outside Dublin, 28 hours and 13 minutes after leaving New York.

"I left New York to return to Los Angeles, but by an unfortunate mistake I set my compass wrong," he said with a straight face while airport officials and newspapermen crowded around to congratulate him and laugh at his joke.

He could just about it now, this nonchalant young Californian, for he had fulfilled a secret ambition to fly across the Atlantic and had finished one of the most amazing flights (Continued on Page Two) in the history of aviation.

SPANNED ATLANTIC
His 1929 Curtiss Robin monoplane, which he bought seven years ago for $900, was of a type in which few aviators would venture over any long stretch of ocean.
But Corrigan had a yen to fly the Atlantic.
And he did it—the second man in history to do it alone.
The other was Lindbergh, who flew alone to Paris 11 years ago, but in a ship larger and more powerful than the one Corrigan used today.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(UP)—Amazed officials of the Air Commerce Bureau said today that Douglas P. Corrigan, who flew the Atlantic without radio, navigation instruments or permission, may be put under "gentle discipline" when he returns to the United States.

Demis Mulligan, director of the Air Commerce Bureau, startled by Corrigan's feat in spanning the Atlantic in a dilapidated plane, indicated, however, that the bureau's punishment won't be too stringent.

"It's a great day in the history of the Irish people and we don't want to spoil their fun right now by talking about punishments," Mulligan said in his soft Irish brogue.

NEW YORK, July 18.—(UP)—Douglas Corrigan, a mysterious young man with a nine-year-old $900 airplane, was 24 hours out of Lloyd Bennett field and still unreported today. He said he was going "to California, non-stop," but he disappeared over the Atlantic ocean heading towards the great circle route and Europe.

Whether he was still heading east or had turned around and gone west after passing out of sight of airport attendants, still was anybody's guess.

He came here unheralded and just as mysteriously, on the night of July 9, during the excitement attending Howard Hughes' take-off on his around-the-world flight. Not until a day later was it learned that he had landed his single-motored Curtiss Robin plane at Roosevelt field after a non-stop flight from Los Angeles, 2,700 miles away, in 27 hours and 50 minutes.

Corrigan himself was not impressed by what he had done. He mentioned it casually to an airport attendant and later said, his was a "vacation flight," and he was going back in the plane the same way he came, non-stop.

He moved his plane to Floyd Bennett field Saturday and became there, a source of mystery and annoyance to the management. He was determined to take off Saturday night and the attendants restrained him until dawn Sunday against his will. They insisted that he "needed all the daylight possible" while taking the rickety, overloaded craft from the ground.

VAN NUYS TO SPEAK
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 18 (UP)—Sen. Frederick Van Nuy will deliver the principal address at the Indiana Democratic Editorial Association meeting in French Lick Aug. 26 and 27, Dean L. Barnhart of Gothen, president of the association announced today.

The fall campaign will be opened officially at the meeting. Van Nuy will speak before the banquet on Aug. 27.

It was at the fall meeting of the Editorial Association last year, on almost the same date, that Gov. M. Clifford Townsend read Van Nuy out of the Democratic party for opposing the President's judiciary reform bill. Since then, the Senator has been taken back and is the party candidate again for the senate.

cal activities.
"The anti-administration papers," wrote Michelson, "have attributed President Roosevelt's favorable mention of certain candidates, particularly for the Senate, to personal resentment against those who oppose particular policies of the administration and his desire to punish those who oppose those policies."

"The reactionary press and the reactionary spokesmen generally speak of the process of 'purge' borrowing the phrase used to indicate the ghastly doings in Russia and in Germany. Never in any of these attacks is there any admission of the possibility that the President, conducting the battle between the forces of liberalism and the forces of reaction, may be actuated by a simple purpose of having elected to Congress people friendly to his policies rather than those who have indicated hostility toward the legislation he deems necessary for the welfare of the country."

Except for Mr. Roosevelt's spectacular intervention in Kentucky in behalf of Sen. Alben W. Barkley, the show under the political big top scarcely has begun. A review of the Roosevelt trip reveals that it was a carefully chosen and cautiously worded progress through political shoal water. The crowds were big and enthusiastic and observers have noted that the President invariably returns in buoyant spirits from face-to-face contact with cheering crowds.

Ghost Towns Dot Recorder's Books

CARTHAGE (CAT), MT. WASHINGTON, FOREST CITY, OTHERS NEVER BUILT

The plat books in the office of the recorder of Putnam county, Mrs. Elizabeth O'Neal, have some pages that attract the scrutiny of persons who have occasion to use those records. The interest referred to is that aroused by plats of such communities in this county as Brunersville, Carthage, Eberle, Mt. Washington, Blakesburg, Nicholasville, Forest City, and others of that sort, there being a score or so of plats of towns which do not now exist in the county, or are represented now by only a store and a house, suggestive of what was once planned to be permanent.

Very few persons in the county know the history of these old towns. However, it should be explained that Carthage is the early name for our present Mt. Meridian. The plat was so to speak, christened Carthage, but that name was changed by order of the postal department because it was another Carthage. But it was not changed until "cat" became a commonly used nickname for the town, and it is yet known as "Cat" to many of the older residents of that region. Carthage was platted by William Heavin, Jr., who was a relative of the man Heavin who now lives in the eastern edge of Putnam county, just west of Coatesville.

The record does not give the date of its platting, but it was a hundred years ago, or so. Carthage was platted to extend lengthwise along the Cumberland road, now the National road, or Federal road 40. William Heavin was named as the "proprietor." The plat shows a public square, the old Half Way house being on its northwesterly corner, and the public square is intersected by Washington street north and south, and there is a Jackson street, also.

Carthage lies in two townships, Marion and Jefferson, and is "catamount" with a compass, because it follows the slant of the National road.

Other of these ghost towns of the county will be mentioned later.

Not Quite News

It is interesting to know that Mrs. Charles Allen of east Anderson street this city, is a grand-niece of former United States Senator James Harlan, of Iowa, who graduated from Asbury University in 1845. The Daily Banner, Saturday, printed a story of the visit of Dr. H. B. Lombden and others at the log cabin yet standing in Parke county which was the home of Senator Harlan during his boyhood and from which he walked to Greencastle, to enter Asbury, in 1841. Majorie Harlan, sister of James, who later became senator, was the grandmother of Mrs. Allen. Robert Strange, who now owns the farm on which the old cabin is located, is a cousin of Mrs. Allen.

Also, another interesting note in this connection is that when James Harlan had graduated from Asbury and was starting to walk back to his Parke county home and had come to Big Walnut creek west or northwest of Greencastle, he was "set" across that stream by Thomas C. Hammond, father of Isaac and Miss Kate Hammond, now of this city. Mr. Hammond, then only about 15 years old, was on horseback and gave the young college graduate a lift across the creek, back of the saddle. Soon after that, Mr. Harlan went to Iowa and remained there, excepting for visits back home.

Professor O. H. Smith, of DePauw, who returned from Iowa only last week, spoke of the late Senator as "the grand old man of Iowa." He was one of the best-loved men that state has ever had.

Virtually Have

LONGING FIGHTING IN SPAIN

BURROCK, Spain, July 18.—(UP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco asserted today that his Nationalists had virtually won the two-year old civil war.

In an interview with the United Press, Franco summed up the last two years of fighting and charged that the "criminality" of Loyalist leaders was responsible for the prolonged conflict which has taken an estimated 1,000,000 lives.

"The war has been won on land and sea, in the air and industrially and economically," he asserted. "It is not ended yet because of the spirit of criminality of the red leaders who do not feel the blood undesecured poured out and because of the obstinacy of Russia which is making every effort to untie a war over Europe."

Asked whether he considered the British plan for withdrawing foreign troops from both sides, Franco said:

"The first problem of the plan is the bad faith of our adversaries, already demonstrated by the number of foreigners passing over to our side these days, and the tactics of concealing foreigners by mingling them with other soldiers. We are carefully studying the problems involved now."

Police Tie Up

CHECKING ACCOUNT: PER-FORM AUTOPSY

TORONTO, Ont., July 18.—(UP)—Police today tied up the bank account of the late Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley, heiress to a $100,000 fortune, and detectives began an investigation of checks issued against it during the year she was a guest in the home of W. Perkins Bull, a Toronto lawyer.

A report on an autopsy performed of Mrs. Sidley's body, released last night, showed a decided shrinkage of brain and deterioration of the rest of the body.

She died in Bull's home July 6. Her will divided her millions into three equal shares, one going to Bull, another to her son, William, the third to charity. An earlier will made the son the sole heir. The son, in his home in Racine, Wis., has indicated his intention of contesting the will.

The police activities carried out the instructions of Attorney General Gordon Coombes.

Both Bull and his son, T. H. Bull, had been served with summons to appear at a formal inquest into Mrs. Sidley's death on July 16. Bull was served at his home, but his son had embarked from England, where he lives, on the liner Duchess of Bedford and, at the request of Toronto police, he left the ship at the mouth of the St. Lawrence and returned to accept subpoena.

CORN CROP DOWN

LAFAYETTE, Ind., July 18.—Indiana's corn production for the current season was forecast at 141,645,000 bushels as compared with 211,770,000 bushels last year and the ten-year average of 143,334,000 bushels, according to the monthly crop report as of July 1, issued today by M. M. Justin, Purdue University agricultural statistician in cooperation with the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

The report showed that on July 1 the 4,047,000 acres of corn, though quite varied over the state in the stage of growth, was generally free of weeds and making normal growth. The yield per acre was forecast at 35 bushels as compared with 45 last year and the ten-year average of 32.2.

It was pointed out that June weather conditions were generally favorable for crops and farm work. In the northern two-thirds of the state rainfall was much greater than normal and in the southern one-third about normal. The first ten days were quite rainy, delaying farm work, but two weeks of favorable drying weather followed, with considerable rainfall the last week. The drying weather gave farmers opportunity in most instances to rid corn fields of weeds and to make progress with hay harvest.

Winter wheat production, with a forecasted yield of 17 bushels per acre, was estimated at 33,728,000 bushels as compared with 34,592,000 bushels last year and the ten year average of 27,694,000 bushels. Wheat harvest was reported well advanced for the season, although interrupted by end of the month rains. Stocks of wheat on farms were estimated to be about 50 per cent more than average.

Oats production was estimated at 42,270,000 bushels compared with 45,973,000 last year and the ten year average of 49,379,000, while rye production was forecast at 1,260,000 bushels compared with 2,025,000 last year and the ten year average of 1,304,000.

TEA TALK

IS THERE any music more blissful in the good old summer time than the silvery tinkle of ice? The mere sound is refreshing to our spirits. We may not have especially thought of being thirsty—but the approaching tinkle of ice, and the sight of frosty glasses makes us suddenly aware that our throats are parched and we are nearly panting for something cold and refreshing. Then, oh, how heavenly, almost any icy drink tastes as it trickles down our throats.

Here in the United States we are especially addicted to these ice cold drinks. We even put ice in our tea and coffee during the wifing days of late July and August—a performance that scandalizes most Europeans.

But whether we drink it hot or cold, we've learned that the tea we buy must be of good quality. Cheap tea, like many other inexpensive things, is an extravagance in the long run. When you consider that from 150 to 200 cups of tea may be made from one pound, while it takes three pounds of coffee to make 100 cups, you realize that a dollar or more a pound for really good tea is not such a reckless price. You may find you can make tea of the strength you like with one level teaspoon per cup—and not add any extra teaspoonful for the pot either. That would make your cost a mere half cent per cup from dollar a pound tea.

In the United States we drink mostly black tea. The usual Orange Pekoe comes from Ceylon, Java, Sumatra or India. This name "Orange Pekoe," by the way, is not a brand name. Neither does it designate a superior kind of tea, for "Orange Pekoe" may be a very good or very poor grade. It's a name which tells you simply that it's tea made from the young leaves at the very tip top of the bush. "Pekoe and Orange Pekoe" means a blend of the tiny tip leaves and larger leaves added to give body. Pekoe alone indicates leaves that are not so near the tip of the branch.

Green tea, as you know, is fermented tea, whereas the black tea is unfermented. Then there is the in-between partially fermented Oolong tea. This tea draws very slowly and sips exquisitely. It also has a dreamy fragrance that is most delightful. Jasmine tea, popular for feminine afternoon parties, is a delicate fragrance, but the real tea connoisseur considers it a little too sweet. It is best when blended with Oolong tea.

ROBBERS LEAVE SNAKES

There was much talk that attempts will be made to amend the liquor laws to alter the beer "port-of-entry" system but the governor is opposing any such action at the special session and it was not considered likely that the move would materialize.

The session will convene at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Gov. Townsend will deliver a message to a joint meeting of both chambers, outlining his recommendations for Indiana's "relief and recovery" program.

EAST PALESTINE, O. (UP)—Intruders took $20 worth of pottery, candy, and about 40 pennies from a snake farm near here. The snakes were unmolested.

Roosevelt Reviews Fleet After Urging Arms Cut

President Roosevelt maintained a busy schedule when he reached the west coast, making an address at Treasure Island, site of the 1938 exposition, reviewing the assembled fleet of 66 ships from the deck of the cruiser Houston, and visiting Mare Island navy yard in company with Rear Admiral David Worth Bagley, above. Roosevelt sounded a world call to cut arms and pledged co-operation of United States in any such move when he spoke before nearly 100,000.
